

IN MEMORY

1938 JOHN M. LEON, JR., 96, of Yarmouth Port, Massachusetts, died on October 17, 2014.

Leon graduated with a B.A. in philosophy from Trinity, where he was a member of Psi Upsilon and played football, basketball, and squash. He also was a member of the Jesters and The Trinity Tripod staff. After Trinity, Leon served in the New York National Guard and later in the U.S. Army during World War II. He was honorably discharged from the Army in 1946 with the rank of captain. Leon worked in sales and merchandising in the textile industry for nearly 30 years and then, in 1975, he opened The Kitchen Place, a custom kitchen and design business, in Tryon, North Carolina.

Leon is survived by daughter Ann Carroll (Richard), three grandsons, and five great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife of 62 years, Elizabeth.

1940 CHARLES DODSLEY WALKER, 94, of New York City, died on January 17, 2015.

Walker graduated with a B.S. in modern languages from Trinity, where he was a student of distinguished organist Clarence Watters and Glee Club accompanist, manager, and student conductor. After serving in the U.S. Navy in World War II, Walker received his master's degree in music from Harvard University. He went on to serve as organist at the American Cathedral in Paris. When Walker returned from Paris and from touring other parts of Europe as a concert organist, he accepted the post of organist/choirmaster of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City in 1950. In this position, which he held for 38 years, he oversaw the fundraising, design, and installation of an 8,000-pipe organ and founded the Canterbury Choral Society. Walker also was a member of the National Executive Committee of the American Guild of Organists for 25 years, including four years as national president. He was on the faculties of several institutions, including Union Theological Seminary School of Sacred Music, New York University, and the Manhattan School of Music. Walker served as director of music of the Blue Hill Troupe, a charitable theater company based in New York City, for 35 years, and he helped to launch the Berkshire Choral Festival. Walker also was director of music at several schools, including a 24-year stint at The Chapin School. He also served as a church musician at Trinity Church in Southport, Connecticut, and Saint Luke's Parish in Darien, Connecticut. In 1973, Trinity honored Walker with the 150th Anniversary Award.

Walker is survived by his wife, Lise Phillips Walker; daughter Susan Starr Walker; son Peter Hayes Walker; and three grandchildren. He was predeceased by his first wife, Janet Hayes Walker.

1945 THE REVEREND CANON JOHN R. EDLER, 90, of Walnut Creek, California, died on December 13, 2014.

After Trinity, where he was a member of Alpha Chi Rho, Edler went on to receive a bachelor of sacred theology degree from Berkeley Divinity School at Yale University. He then entered religious life as a priest in the Episcopal Church in 1948. He served a number of communities in New York and New Jersey, as well as the Episcopal Diocese of Newark, New Jersey, and the U.S. Episcopal Church. He also served as a delegate to the U.S. General Convention.

Edler is survived by his wife of 65 years, Jean; daughters Barbara (Judith Pollock), Cynthia (William Marshall), and Deborah (Michael Brennan); son Jack (David Kietrys); and a grandson and a step-granddaughter.

1945 ROBERT W. FREDRICKSON, M.D., 90, of Wethersfield, Connecticut, died on January 13, 2015.

Fredrickson came to Trinity in the fall of 1941. His studies were interrupted by service in the U.S. Army as a medic in the Philippines during World War II. He returned to complete his B.S. at Trinity, where he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. Fredrickson went on to earn his M.D. from New York Medical College before completing his surgical residency at Hartford Hospital and then Memorial-Sloan Kettering in New York. His career included running a private surgical practice for 40 years, mentoring hundreds of young surgeons, founding the Harford Surgical Trauma Service, and serving as a clinical professor of surgery at the University of Connecticut School of Medicine. He was a loyal supporter of the College.

Fredrickson is survived by his children, Geoffrey Fredrickson (Brenda), Linda Fredrickson (Kevin Sheehan), Lisa Skriner (John), and Lauralyn Fredrickson '83 (Sheldon Itzkowitz); eight grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and niece Susan Fredrickson.

1947 EDWARD J. HOTEZ, 89, of Bloomfield, Connecticut, died on January 9, 2015.

At age 18, Hotez joined the U.S. Navy and served as a lieutenant in the South Pacific from 1943-1946. Hotez then came to Trinity, where he earned a B.S. in general science. He went on to earn an M.B.A. in marketing and management from Columbia University Business School in 1949. In 1950, he married Jean Goldberg, his wife of 65 years. He spent his career as a business executive, specializing in office management, systems and procedures, and cost controls. He worked for several firms in the Hartford area, including Travelers Insurance Company and United Aircraft Corporation, Pratt & Whitney Division. Hotez also taught business and marketing at the University of Hartford, Central Connecticut State University, and Manchester Community College.

Hotez is survived by children Lawrence Hotes '73 (Linda), Peter Hotez (Ann), and Elizabeth Kirshenbaum (Warren); daughter-in-law Andrea Hotes '76; 11 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. He was predeceased by son Richard Hotes '76.

1947 ROBERT B. JENNINGS, 90, of Englewood, Florida, died on November 23, 2013.

At Trinity, Jennings played on the football team and was a member of Alpha Chi Rho before suspending his studies to serve in the U.S. Navy. After returning from World War II, where he was an officer aboard the USS Kretchmer in the Pacific Theater, Jennings resumed his undergraduate studies and earned his B.A. in 1947, the same year he married the former Shirley Narvesen in the Trinity College Chapel. Jennings spent most of his career in the carpet industry, including serving as president and CEO of Bigelow-Sanford, Inc. He then served as president and CEO of Reifenhauer-NABCO, Inc. In addition to being deeply committed to Trinity, Jennings enjoyed serving his community through Rotary membership as well as seats on several boards.

Jennings is survived by his wife of 66 years, Shirley; sons Robert '69 (Penelope), Jeffrey, Chris '76 (Pamela), and Peter (Krista); nine grandchildren, including Margaret '08; and two great-grandchildren.

1947 GLENN W. PRESTON, 91, of Rancho Santa Fe, California, died on December 28, 2013.

Preston's studies at Trinity were interrupted by World War II, in which he served in the U.S. Navy as an aviator and radar operator from 1942 until 1946. Preston returned to Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Phi, and completed his B.S. degree in mathematics in 1947. He then went on to Yale University, where he earned an M.S. degree in physics. During a 30-year career as a scientist in the electronics industry, he worked at firms including Philco Corporation, Goodyear Aerospace, and General Atomics. Preston is the author of several papers that appeared in publications such as the Journal of Applied Physics. He also served as a consultant to entities including the Rand Corporation and the National Academy of Sciences. He taught at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was a senior member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, and was a member of the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics, the American Physical Society, The Econometric Society, and the Institute of Mathematical Statistics. In 1957, Preston ran for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives, but his campaign was unsuccessful.

Preston is survived by his wife, Ruth; sons Geoffrey, Charles, and Peter; five grandchildren; and a great-granddaughter.

1949 ROBERT B. RORICK, 89, of Santa Rosa, California, died on July 12, 2014.

After graduating from the Kent School, Rorick spent 30 months serving the U.S. Army Air Corps in World War II. Following his honorable discharge, he attended Kenyon College and later graduated from Trinity with a B.A. in economics. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon at both colleges.

Rorick had a diverse career with time spent as a vice president of sales and purchasing at B.R. Baker Co., as the owner of a toy store, as a stockbroker, and as an estate planner and financial consultant. He was deeply committed to community service, seen through his lifetime support of the Boys & Girls Club of America.

Rorick is survived by his wife of 53 years, Joan; children Robert B. Rorick, Jr. (Betsy), Michael F. Rorick, and Genevieve B. Schlangen (Henry); and two grandchildren.

1950 ARTHUR I. AUSTIN, 86, of Burbank, California, died on February 3, 2015.

Austin graduated with a B.A. in history from Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Psi and Pi Gamma Mu honor society. He also ran track and was on the staff of The Trinity Tripod. After graduating, Austin went on to serve in the armed forces for two years before moving to California and working for a refrigeration business, where he rose to the position of vice president.

Austin is survived by siblings John and Mary, three nephews, and one niece. He was predeceased by brother William.

1950 DONALD L. FARROW, 85, of Westerville, Ohio, died on September 25, 2014.

Farrow graduated with a B.A. in English from Trinity, where he was a member of St. Anthony Hall and participated in The Trinity Tripod, the Jesters, and the Glee Club. He went on to receive an M.Div. from Virginia Theological Seminary. Farrow served as a clergy member in Pennsylvania for several years before moving into the field of mental health. He held various executive positions at mental health organizations, including serving as state director of the Alabama Mental Health Association and later the Ohio Mental Health Association. After retiring in 1992, he served as interim rector at a church and as chaplain of a rehabilitation center, both in Ohio.

Farrow is survived by his wife of 62 years, Carolyn; children Libby McKnight, John Farrow, Peter Farrow, Tom Farrow, and Martha Sarrack; and seven grandchildren.

1950 ROGER B. LADD, JR., 88, of Melbourne, Florida, died on January 16, 2015.

Ladd graduated from Hartford Public High School before serving in the U.S. Marines in the Pacific Theater. He then returned to Hartford to attend Trinity, where he earned a B.A. and was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He was an insurance agent and later a commercial real estate broker who was a dedicated and distinguished member of the Hartford community. In addition to serving seven terms on the City Council, Ladd also was on the Board of Tax Review and was chairman of the Hartford Cerebral Palsy Drive and the Republican Town Committee.

Ladd is survived by children Lisa, Peter (Cathy), and Leslie Hoskovec (Bill); their mother, Fran Ladd Cerasoli; brother Bob (Georgia); and three grandchildren.

1950 JOHN R. MACKESSON, 85, of Hartford, Connecticut, died on October 13, 2014.

MacKesson graduated with a B.A. in economics from Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Phi, was on the staff of The Trinity Tripod, and managed both the football and track and field teams. He spent his career in the insurance industry, retiring from Aetna Casualty and Surety after 35 years of service. He was a member of the Connecticut National Guard, the Air Force, and the Army National Guard. MacKesson was registered with the Boy Scouts of America for more than 60 years and served as a scoutmaster and commissioner.

MacKesson is survived by his wife of 63 years, Janice; children Karla MacKesson, Kenneth MacKesson, Leslie Albee (John), and Lynn MacKesson; and three grandchildren.

1950 DONALD S. MCCLAIN, JR., 88, of St. Simons Island, Georgia, died on December 3, 2014.

Before coming to Trinity, McClain served in the U.S. Army Air Corps during World War II. He then came to Hartford, graduating from Trinity with a B.S. in physical sciences. While on campus, he was a member of the Political Science Club, the Flying Club, the Rifle Club, the Republican Club, the Outing Club, and the Spanish Club, for which he served as secretary. McClain went on to earn a master's degree in geology from Emory University in 1953. He was a member of many clubs and boards, including the St. Simons Transportation Study Committee, the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the Seaman Specialist, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the Georgia branch of the National Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims.

McClain is survived by his wife, Dorothy; daughter Corinne; stepdaughter Doree Avera (Richard); two grandsons; two step-grandsons; and a great-granddaughter.

1950 JAMES P. MCDONNELL, 89, of Hanford, California, died on September 11, 2014.

McDonnell was an engineer on B-24 airplanes in World War II before coming to Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, played football, and participated in the Newman Club. After graduating, McDonnell went to Akron, Ohio, to work for Firestone Rubber Company. He spent more than 24 years in the tire industry, managing factories for companies including Cooper Tires and Armstrong Rubber Company.

McDonnell is survived by his wife of 61 years, Dorothy; daughter Chris (Jack Soares); two grandchildren; and siblings Thomas McDonnell (Elaine), Marie Jeffries, and Patricia Brenner. He was predeceased by sister Geraldine Lanosa.

1950 ELTON L. SMITH, 85, of Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, died on April 19, 2014.

Smith earned his B.A. in economics with a minor in history from Trinity, where he participated in intramural sports and served as editor of the sports section of The Trinity Tripod. He also served in the U.S. Army for two years during the Korean War. Smith received his CPA certification from the University of Montana and spent his career as a CPA.

Smith is survived by his wife of 64 years, Mary Alice, and children Betsy and Kent (Mary). He was among four Smith men to attend Trinity, starting with his father, Lloyd '23, his uncle Everett '28, and his brother Leighton '69.

1951 CHARLES HENRI ANDRE DE LA PORTE, 88, of Ommen, Netherlands, died on November 23, 2014.

Originally from the Netherlands, Andre de la Porte graduated with a B.A. in economics from Trinity, where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi. Andre de la Porte went on to work for Gillespie & Co., Dorr-Oliver Incorporated, the United Nations, UNICEF, Christie's, and Merrem & la Porte. He also earned a graduate degree in business administration from Harvard University in 1971. After working and attending graduate school in the United States, Andre de la Porte returned to the Netherlands, where he lived with his wife and four daughters.

1951 DONALD J. BOYKO, 85, of Boston, Massachusetts, died on November 26, 2014.

At Trinity, Boyko was on the staff of The Trinity Tripod and played basketball and football. After graduating, he served in the U.S. Air Force for four years and then enjoyed a successful career as an executive at Kelly Services. Boyko also played squash competitively throughout his adult life. He was a loyal supporter of the College.

Boyko is survived by his wife, Patricia, and many nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his seven older siblings.

1951 JOSEPH D. HURWITZ, 85, of West Hartford, Connecticut, died on September 9, 2014.

Hurwitz received his B.S. in physical sciences. He was a member of the Brownell Club and was involved with Hillel. He went on to earn a J.D. from Harvard Law School and practiced law in Hartford, Connecticut, for more than 30 years. He also served in the U.S. Army during the Korean War and in the Army Reserves. After retiring from his law career, Hurwitz often returned to Trinity to audit classes. He also was active for many years in Jewish communal organizations on the national and local level, including serving as president of the Jewish Community Center of Greater Hartford.

Hurwitz is survived by his second wife, Bonnie Mitchell; sons Jonathan (Mona) and Seth (Eleanor); and four grandchildren. He was predeceased by his first wife, Judith Hurwitz, and his brother, Edward Hurwitz. Two of Hurwitz's uncles, Joseph B. Hurwitz '22 and Jacob C. Hurwitz '36, and his brother, Edward Hurwitz '41, also attended Trinity.

1951 WILLIAM S. VAUN, M.D., 85, of Norfolk, Connecticut, died on December 1, 2014.

Vaun graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Trinity with a degree in biology. While on campus, he participated in the Brownell Club and Glee Club. He went on to earn his M.D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1955. Vaun completed his internship and residency at Hartford Hospital. From 1957 to 1959, he served in the U.S. Air Force as a captain, with responsibility for the medical care of officers assigned to the Washington, D.C., region. After leaving the military, Vaun worked as a physician and teacher of medicine at Western Reserve University, the University of Pennsylvania, and the New Jersey School of Medicine. He later became director of medical education at Monmouth Medical Center and was instrumental in its tremendous growth as well as the development of Monmouth's affiliation with the Medical College of Pennsylvania and Hahnemann University. He retired in 1987. Vaun also served on the legislative council of the American Hospital Association, among other distinguished national medical boards.

Vaun and his wife, Sally, were married in the Trinity College Chapel in 1961. In addition to his wife, he is survived by daughter Elizabeth "Sissi" Vaun and siblings John Vounatso, Ethel Nowacki, Marcey Antonakis, Irene Turek, and Angie Cofer.

1951 MAURICE WILLIAM VILLANO, SR., 88, of State College, Pennsylvania, died on November 17, 2014.

Though he enrolled in Trinity in 1944, Villano suspended his undergraduate studies to serve in the U.S. Army as an infantry replacement in the European theater. Upon returning to campus, he joined ROTC, completed a B.A. in economics, and was inducted into the Pi Gamma Mu honor society for outstanding scholarship in the social sciences. After graduation, Villano was recalled to active duty in the Air Force, where he worked in security and law enforcement. Villano retired as a major and returned to Trinity to pursue an M.A. in educational studies before earning a Ph.D. in educational research from the University of Connecticut in 1972. He spent the remainder of his career as a research associate at The Pennsylvania State University, retiring in 1987.

Villano is survived by his wife, Diann McVey; children Maurice Villano, Jr. (Diane), Elisabeth Schwarz (Lothar), and Michaela Holmes; eight grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; siblings Joseph Villano and Gloria Murzin; and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his first wife, Rose-Maria E. Leibmann, and his second wife, Helen Morris Hutchins.

1951 DONN D. WRIGHT, 86, of Fort Myers, Florida, died on January 10, 2015.

Wright graduated with a B.A. in studio arts from Trinity, where he participated in the Trinity Art Club and was a member and treasurer of Alpha Delta Phi. He later studied theology at The General Theological Seminary and New York University. After spending time in several fields, Wright found his calling in independent schools. He worked as director of development and secretary of the academy at Blair Academy in New Jersey for five years before becoming headmaster of Hoosac School in New York. Wright also served as headmaster of New York's Millbrook School, where he oversaw the transition to coeducation. He also served as a fundraising consultant for several nonprofits and schools, was a member of the Headmaster's Association, and was honored by the National Association of Episcopal Schools with its John D. Verdery Award, given in recognition of outstanding service to Episcopal schools and to the organization.

Wright is survived by his wife of 62 years, Barbara; children Andrea, Jefferson, and Jason; eight grandchildren; and one great-grandson.

1952, M.A. 1955 WILLIAM J. GORALSKI, 85, of Avon, Connecticut, died on December 16, 2014.

Goralski earned a B.A. in history from Trinity, where he was a member of the Newman Club and played football, basketball, and baseball. He served as captain of the football team, and during his final game as a senior, a tackle resulted in a life-altering spinal injury. After months in the hospital, he returned to the College to finish his degree and was honored with the Class of 1935 Most Valuable Player Award and the George Sheldon McCook Trophy as the male senior athlete of the year. He went on to earn his M.A. in history at Trinity before dedicating his professional life to education, teaching social studies at Simsbury High School for 30 years. After his retirement in 1985, he wrote six books, including Growing up in Old Avon Center. Goralski, a loyal supporter of the College, received the 150th Anniversary Award in 1973 and the Alumni Medal for Excellence in 2002.

Goralski is survived by his wife, Norma; daughter Karen Covert (Dennis Lynch); sister Rosemary DeSouza (Philip); sisters-in-law Veronica and Aldona Goralski; three granddaughters; four great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by brothers Henry, Raymond, and Joseph Goralski; sisters Stella Goralski, Julia Igoe, Agnes Vincent, Mary Comeau, Helen Capitani, and Genevieve Maramarco; and son Michael Covert.

1952 JEROME W. LEHRFELD, M.D., 83, of Commack, New York, died on January 7, 2015.

Lehrfeld graduated with a B.S. in biology from Trinity, where he was a member of the Brownell Club and the Hille Society. He also was on the staffs of The Trinity Tripod and the Ivy and was a member of the fencing team, serving as captain during his senior year. After leaving Trinity, Lehrfeld attended New York University, where he received his M.S., also in biology. He then went on to graduate from SUNY Downstate Medical School in 1958. Lehrfeld joined the U.S. Navy in 1959 and served as a lieutenant in the Medical Corps. In 1962, he set up a general medical practice on Long Island and was affiliated with Plainview Hospital for more than 40 years. He retired in 2006. Lehrfeld belonged to several medical groups, including the American Board of Family Medicine, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the Medical Society of the State of New York, and the Nassau County Medical Society. He also volunteered as surgeon and deputy chief of the Levittown Fire Department for 37 years, was a medical adviser in the Division of Safety Services for the Nassau County chapter of the American Red Cross, and taught emergency medical technicians for many years.

Lehrfeld is survived by his wife of 49 years, Marilyn; children Jodi Friedberg and Matthew; and two grandchildren.

1952 ROBERT A. WERDELIN, 89, of West Hartford, Connecticut, died on November 7, 2014.

Prior to attending Trinity, Werdelin served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He earned his B.A. in mathematics at Trinity in 1952. Werdelin worked for Aetna Insurance Company and Cigna as a controller for more than 30 years. He was a member of the Greater Hartford Jaycees and the West Hartford Regents, where he served as treasurer for more than two decades.

Werdelin is survived by many nieces, nephews, and cousins. He was predeceased by his wife, Rosemary, and his sister, Jean.

1953, M.A. 1999 ALLAN N. YOUNG, JR., 83, of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, died on October 19, 2014.

Young earned his B.A. in economics from Trinity, where he also was a member of Alpha Chi Rho and played football. He served for several years in the U.S. Navy Reserve. Upon graduation, he joined his father's prefinished oak wood flooring business, the Cromar Company. In 1974, Young formed Cromaglass Corporation, a manufacturer of wastewater treatment and recycling systems. Young also served as president of the American Wastewater Management Association, which provided guidance in the development of the Clean Water Act of 1977. He was active in the community, including service to the Lycoming County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. He later returned to Trinity to earn an M.A. in American studies in 1999.

Young is survived by his wife of 56 years, Margaret; children Holly Bogart (Steve), Allan N. Young III, and William Young; and two grandchildren. He was predeceased by sisters Pollyanna Giantonio, Gloria Young, and Suzanne Abbe.

1954, M.S. 1956 MAYO SCHREIBER, 82, of Avon, Connecticut, died on January 26, 2015.

Schreiber earned his B.A. in psychology from Trinity before immediately enrolling in the College's graduate program, through which he earned his M.S., also in psychology, in 1956. As an undergraduate, Schreiber was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha and the debate team. He continued doctoral studies at the University of Connecticut. He interned at the V.A. Counseling Center in Hartford and then at Psychological Services in New Haven, joining the staff of the latter in 1957. Schreiber went on to found The Guidance Center in Hamden, Connecticut, which provided a variety of psychological and evaluative services to its patients. He spent more than 30 years at the center before retiring.

Schreiber is survived by his wife of 60 years, Beverly; children Mayo Schreiber, Jr. (Kevin Cathcart) and Elizabeth Schreiber (Andrew Kaplan); two grandsons; sister Doris Willcox; and many nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by siblings Robert Schreiber and Anne Parker.

1955 RICHARD D. ROYSTON, 81, of Atlanta, Georgia, died on January 4, 2015.

Royston, an English major at Trinity, played varsity soccer, took part in ROTC and the Jesters, and was a member of Alpha Delta Phi. He was a captain in the U.S. Air Force and served as a fighter pilot from 1956-1959. In 1962, he founded Education Management Corporation, which started a number of schools across the country, including The Art Institutes. He served as the company's chairman until 1986.

Royston is survived by his wife, Gail; children Ty, Leslie Rocco (Frank), Jane Gwaltney (John), and Rick (Margaret); 11 grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

1956 BERTRAM R. SCHADER, 79, of Madrid, Spain, died on January 5, 2015.

Schader, a Philadelphia native, graduated Phi Beta Kappa with a B.A. in history. While on campus, he was a member of Phi Kappa Psi, the Political Science Club, the Interfraternity Council, Hillel, the Young Democrats Club, and the Foreign Policy Association. He also played soccer and lacrosse. Schader was a member of Pi Gamma Mu honor society and was honored with the F.A. Brown Prize for English oration.

Schader went on to earn a J.D. from Yale Law School before joining the U.S. Air Force as a judge advocate officer (JAG), serving in Morocco and Spain between 1960 and 1963. After leaving the military, Schader was involved in several successful entrepreneurial endeavors in Madrid, a city that he called home for the remainder of his life. He also was involved in the American Club of Madrid, the Yale Club of Madrid, and the Jewish Community of Madrid. Schader generously supported the College throughout his life. His son, Marc, followed in his father's footsteps, graduating from Trinity in 1990.

Schader is survived by his wife, Margaretha; children Marc and Alexandra; and four grandchildren.

1956 RIDLEY M. STUART, 80, of Peru, New York, died on May 8, 2014.

While at Trinity, Stuart earned a B.A. in history, played track and lacrosse, and was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He served as a pilot in the U.S. Air Force from 1956 until 1977. He also went on to attend Plattsburgh State University.

1957 DAVID MACISAAC, 79, of Montgomery, Alabama, died on March 25, 2014.

MacIsaac graduated Phi Beta Kappa with a B.A. in history. He also was a Distinguished Military Graduate through his participation in Trinity's Air Force ROTC program. While on campus, he also played freshman basketball and participated in the Freshman Executive Council. MacIsaac went on to earn a master's degree from Yale University in 1958 and a Ph.D. from Duke University in 1970, both in history. He also spent nearly three decades as an educator, including four tours teaching history at the U.S. Air Force Academy, many years at the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, and a stint as a fellow of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars at the Smithsonian. His active duty service included time in Spain, Vietnam, and at the Naval War College. He retired from the Air Force as a lieutenant colonel. MacIsaac also published several significant scholarly writings analyzing Air Force history and military theory, including Strategic Bombing in World War II: The Story of the U.S. Bombing Strategy Survey and the essays "Voices from the Central Blue: The Air Power Theorists" and "Master at Arms: Clausewitz in Full View."

MacIsaac is survived by his wife of 55 years, Charlotte; children Donna Clodfelter (Mark), Paul MacIsaac, Pamela MacIsaac, and Patrick MacIsaac; a grandson; and siblings John MacIsaac (Donna) and Ann Manwaring (Walter).

1958 KENISTON P. MERRILL, 78, of Woodstock, Vermont, died on January 26, 2015.

Merrill majored in English and economics at Trinity, where he played football, made the dean's list, and was a member of Alpha Chi Rho. He went on to earn his M.B.A. from New York University in 1960. Merrill spent the first part of his career as a financial analyst at TIAA-CREF and later the Five Arrows Fund. The fund became New Court Securities and then Rothschild, Inc., where he rose to managing director. In 1982, Merrill and his family moved to Vermont, where he became chief investment officer of National Life Insurance Company and president and chief executive officer and a member of the Board of Directors of National Life Investment Management Company. He also served on several local and nonprofit boards, including those of the Cardigan Mountain School, The Episcopal Archdiocese of Vermont, Central Vermont Hospital, and Vermont Law School. He was a devoted supporter of the College and a loyal fan of the football team.

Merrill is survived by his wife of 56 years, Carol; sons Peter and Andrew '85; their wives Harriette (Bunny) and Erica; and five grandchildren.

1958 RICHARD B. NOBLE, JR., 79, of Boston, Massachusetts, died on September 24, 2014.

Noble graduated from Trinity with a B.A. in English. While on campus, he participated in basketball, track, and football, serving as captain of the latter team in his senior year. Noble was a member of St. Anthony Hall and served in the student Senate. After college, he served as a captain in the U.S. Air Force. He later spent his career as an executive in the home-building industry, first with Owens-Corning Fiberglass and later with Lumbermens Merchandising Corporation. He also volunteered with the Hurricane Katrina relief efforts.

Noble is survived by his wife, Laurie Carter Noble; daughters Kim Noble '87 and Katharine Noble; and a granddaughter. Noble's father, Richard B. Noble '25, and uncle, Herbert Noble '26, also graduated from Trinity.

1959 ANTHONY C. THURSTON, 77, of Lyme, Connecticut, died on February 20, 2015.

Thurston earned his B.A. in studio arts from Trinity, where he was a member of St. Anthony Hall. He went on to serve as a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy and toured on the carrier WASP during the Cuban Missile Crisis. He had a 30-year career in advertising, retiring as vice president of Grey Advertising. Thurston was involved with his community, as seen through his founding of the Connecticut Impressionist Art Trail, his service as president of the boards of the Florence Griswold Museum and of High Hopes Therapeutic Riding, and his membership on the board of Musical Masterworks. In 1999, he received the Distinguished Advocate for the Arts Award from the Connecticut Commission of the Arts.

Thurston is survived by his wife of 49 years, Sandy; daughters Lisa Reneson and Dana Evans; sons-in-law Aaron and John; and four grandchildren.

1959 WILLIAM BLODGETT YAHN, 77, of Austin, Texas, died on December 14, 2014.

Yahn graduated from Trinity with a B.A. in economics. He also was a member of the Senate, the Spanish and Economics clubs, and Delta Kappa Epsilon, which he also served as an officer. He served in the U.S. Navy and then went on to earn an M.B.A. from The Wharton School. Yahn was a partner at Harrison-Pearson Associates from 1991 until his retirement in 2014. He was a member of the Austin Rotary Club throughout his professional life.

Yahn is survived by his wife of 47 years, Nancy; daughter Betsy (Chris Gillon); four grandchildren; and sister Meredith Grenier.

1960 ARTHUR O. ENQUIST, 75, of New York, New York, died on December 21, 2013.

Enquist graduated Phi Beta Kappa with a B.A. in history from Trinity, where he was a member of the Brownell Club and Pi Gamma Mu honor society. He earned his B.D. from Lutheran Seminary in Philadelphia in 1963 and served as a pastor in Littleton, New Hampshire. He then went on to receive his M.B.A. with honors from The University of Chicago and worked as a business manager for three Lutheran churches in New York City. Enquist later worked as a financial analyst at Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and as a fixed income adviser at Nationar, (formerly Savings Bank Trust Company). His last position at the bank was vice president.

Enquist is survived by his sister, Ingrid, and four nephews. He was predeceased by his brother, the Reverend Walter Enquist.

1963 WESLEY V. FESHLER, 73, of Wallingford, Connecticut, died on January 22, 2015.

Feshler received the Capitol Area Scholarship at Trinity, where he earned a B.A. in history. He was a dean's list scholar and a member of Alpha Chi Rho. He also played varsity soccer and baseball, and as a senior, was honored with the John Sweet Batting Award. He went on to work in sales throughout much of his career until his 2001 retirement.

Feshler is survived by daughters Darcie (John Roy) and Leah (Gerald Verna); four grandchildren; brother Bud Feshler (Rose); and two nephews and a niece.

1963 MALCOLM S. GRAHAM, 72, of Austin, Texas, died on June 26, 2014.

Graham received his B.A. in economics from Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He later attended The Wharton School in Philadelphia, where he earned an M.B.A. Graham began his financial career as a CPA in Philadelphia and later moved to Austin, where he worked for a local firm and at state organizations, including the State Bar of Texas and the Texas Education Agency. He also served in the U.S. Air Force and was stationed in Vermont.

Graham is survived by his wife of nearly 50 years, Jill; children Stephen Graham (Andrea) and Kaitlin Graham Guthrow (Andrew); sister Nancy Graham Oelz (David); three grandchildren; and a niece. His grandfather, Richard Niles Graham, also attended Trinity, graduating in 1905.

1963 STEPHEN P. JONES, 73, of Asheville, North Carolina, died on January 9, 2015.

Jones earned his B.A. in English at Trinity, where he played varsity soccer and won an Alumni Prize in English Composition. He also was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, the Senate, and Campus Chest. He went on to earn an M.A. in English at SUNY Buffalo. He also served in the U.S. Army Reserves during the Vietnam War. Jones was a lifelong educator, including his time as a teacher at The Park School of Buffalo in New York, as an administrator at the University School in Shaker Heights, Ohio, and as headmaster at Renbrook School in West Hartford, Connecticut, and The Elisabeth Morrow School in Englewood, New Jersey. He was involved in the communities in which he lived, including serving as founding board president of the Cleveland Children's Museum and as a board member of the Cleveland Institute of Music, the Hartford Symphony Orchestra, and Asheville GreenWorks. He also served Trinity as a member of the Board of Fellows.

Jones is survived by his wife of 50 years,

Suzanne; sons Andrew Jones, Cador Pricejones (Margaret), and Nathan Jones (Elena); seven grandchildren; foster daughter Christine Wheatley; brothers Peter Jones, Christopher Jones (Leslie), and Nicholas Jones (Sue); and many nieces and nephews.

1964 KENNETH R. GOLDBERG, 71, of Port St. Lucie, Florida, died on July 31, 2014.

Goldberg graduated from Trinity with a B.S. in biology. He worked as a sales representative before becoming co-owner of an auto parts business in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

1965 JOHN P. JEWETT, 70, of Sudbury, Massachusetts, died on October 22, 2013.

Jewett graduated with a B.A. in English from Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Phi and sang with the Chapel Choir and the Chanticleers. He went on to earn his J.D. from the University of Connecticut and his LL.M. from the London School of Economics. During his 50-year career, he served as a technology executive and attorney.

Jewett is survived by his wife of 47 years, Isabel; sons Jonathan, Todd, and Chris; and four grandchildren.

1965 PETER A. STURROCK, 70, of Storrs, Connecticut, died on January 1, 2015.

Sturrock graduated with a B.A. in studio arts. While on campus, Sturrock was a member of Theta Xi, was a senior steward, and participated in swimming, soccer, and lacrosse. After Trinity, he went on to earn master's degrees in art history and education. Sturrock worked for more than a decade in the Coventry School System, serving as a teacher, coach, vice principal, and athletic director before moving into the financial sector. He began his second career at Great-West Life in Hartford before starting his own firm, P.A. Sturrock & Associates. His company merged with the firm of Robert E. Brickley '67, Manufacturers Financial Group. He later teamed with Kenneth D. Savino '81, forming the financial services firm Savino, Sturrock & Sullivan. He went on to become a partner at Constitution Advisory Group.

Sturrock was elected to Trinity's National Alumni Association Executive Board and served two years as its president, participated in the Trinity Club of Hartford and the Long Walk Societies, and won the College's Alumni Medal for Excellence in 2000 in recognition of his significant contributions to his profession, to his community, and to Trinity College. He was a dedicated supporter of the College.

Sturrock is survived by his wife of 49 years, Betsy; daughter Sarah Fleming (Ryan); siblings Jean Bruce and Ian Sturrock (Mary); and numerous nieces and nephews.

1965 W. DEAN WALLACE, JR., 63, of Medford, Massachusetts, died on July 10, 2012.

Wallace earned his B.A. in history from Trinity, where he participated in Glee Club and was on the staff of The Trinity Tripod. He went on to receive an M.A. from Northwestern University and a Ph.D. from the University of Connecticut, both in history. In the 1990s, Wallace ran a newspaper called the Boston Comic News, based in Boston, which examined national and world events through the graphic comment of editorial cartoons from around the world. In the early 1990s, it had a circulation of more than 60,000 and was used in Boston-area civics and social studies classes to stimulate student interest.

1966 DAVID A. BREMER, 70, of Mililani, Hawaii, died on December 2, 2014.

Bremer earned a B.A. in psychology at Trinity, where he was a member of Theta Xi and Cerberus honor society; participated in cross country, basketball, and track; co-chaired the Psychology Club; and was a junior adviser. He was honored with the Robert S. Morris Track Trophy as the most valuable member of the varsity track team. After graduating, Bremer went on to earn his Ph.D. in clinical psychology at Washington University in St. Louis in 1973. Bremer later moved to Hawaii, where he practiced clinical psychology and continued his education, earning a master's in public health from the University of Hawaii in 1984.

Bremer is survived by his wife, Elizabeth; daughters Sarah and Leah; and brothers John and James. His brother-in-law, Eric T. Lodge, also graduated from Trinity College, Class of '65.

1966 WILLIAM H. SCHWEITZER, 70, of Alexandria, Virginia, died on March 3, 2015.

Schweitzer earned a B.A. in history from Trinity, where he made the Dean's List and was a member of Alpha Delta Phi, serving the fraternity as vice president during his senior year. He played varsity baseball, varsity basketball, and varsity soccer, and, as a senior, led the soccer team as captain. He also was a member of Cerberus and the Trinity College Senate, and he served as a junior adviser. Schweitzer went on to receive his J.D. from Georgetown University in 1969. He was an assistant U.S. attorney in Washington from 1970 to 1973 and then joined BakerHostetler, where he served as partner. He developed expertise in election law and campaign finance issues, as well as sports law. He was known as a top Washington lobbyist for Major League Baseball for the past 20 years.

Schweitzer was a loyal supporter of the College, serving as a member of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Fellows, as well as president of the Trinity Club of Washington, D.C., and the National Alumni Association. In the latter role, he was instrumental in creating a long-range plan for the association, redrafting the organization's constitution, strengthening the regional network of clubs, and making the group a more integral part of the College community through involvement in career counseling and admissions. He also created the Alumni Leadership Conference to provide training and recognition for alumni volunteers. In recognition of his efforts, he was named higher education's 1987 Volunteer of the Year by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. In 1991, the College honored him with the Alumni Medal for Excellence, awarded to alumni who have made significant contributions to their professions, to their communities, and to Trinity. In 2011, he was awarded The Eigenbrodt Cup, one of the greatest honors that can be bestowed on a Trinity graduate; the recipient must be an alumnus/a of national or international prominence, who has rendered unusual and significant service to the College.

Schweitzer is survived by his wife of 42 years, Leslie; sons William H. Schweitzer, Jr. '06, and Arthur H. Schweitzer '09; and siblings Robert Schweitzer and Barbara Lamade.

1967 THOMAS MCGILVERY III, 69, of Glendale, Arizona, died on April 18, 2014.

McGilvery received his B.A. in history from Trinity, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He served in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War. He later worked for U.S. Air and then as an independent consultant doing programming and problem solving.

McGilvery is survived by his father, Thomas McGilvery II; children Magee Conner and Christopher Vail; sister Lee Ellen Dowler (Paul); companion Anne Hatcher; aunt Donna Hess; niece Amanda Martin (Matt); and nephew Ian Brown (Christy).

1968 THE REVEREND WILLIAM L. GRANT, 67, of New York, New York, died on April 16, 2014.

Grant graduated with a B.A. in English from Trinity, where he was a member of Sigma Nu and played lacrosse. He joined the U.S. Marines in 1968 and served in Okinawa for three years. He later became an ordained minister and eventually founded the Tribeca Spiritual Center in New York City. He also founded the New York WEB Center, a media and education program at W.E.B. Du Bois Academic High School in Brooklyn. The center recently was renamed The William Grant New York WEB Center.

Grant is survived by his wife, Cynthia. P. Deben.

1976 WILLIAM H. BARROWS, M.D., 60, of Oak Park, Illinois, died on May 26, 2014.

Barrows graduated from Trinity with a B.S. in biology. He received his M.D. from Chicago Medical School in 1980 and went on to practice pediatrics in Chicago for 30 years. Barrows also was a faculty member at Rush Medical College and Northwestern Medical School. He volunteered for decades at St. Basil's Free People's Clinic, and he was certified as a mohel by the Reform Movement of Judaism, performing more than 850 brit milah ceremonies with a special dedication to creating a spiritual experience and to serving interfaith families. He also was a loyal supporter of the College.

Barrows is survived by his wife of 32 years, Donna Epstein Barrows '75, and their sons, Samuel, Charles, and Ted.

1976 MARGARET CELESTE LLOYD, 58, of Fredericksburg, Virginia, died on September 13, 2012.

Lloyd graduated with a B.A. in history from Trinity, where she played basketball for four years. After graduating, Lloyd moved to Washington, D.C., where she worked in legislative affairs for The American Institute of Architects; the American Society of Heating, Refrigerating, and Air-Conditioning Engineers; and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Most recently, she worked as an insurance agent for GEICO. Lloyd moved to Fredericksburg in 1989 to raise her family. She was an active member of the community, volunteering at her church, a swim league, and the Special Olympics.

Lloyd is survived by her husband, John; children Nicholas, Brendan, and Allison; mother Marie McCarthy; and siblings Frederick McGrail, John McGrail, Richard McGrail, William McGrail, and Patricia McCarthy.

1986 ELIZABETH A. IANDOLI, 50, of Auburn, Massachusetts, died on December 12, 2014.

Iandoli earned a B.A. in intercultural studies from Trinity, where she also played basketball for two years and was a Presidential Fellow. She went on to receive a master's degree from the School for International Training/World Learning in Brattleboro, Vermont. Iandoli taught in the Worcester Public Schools for 22 years and also was on the faculty at Burncoat High School, her alma mater, in addition to City View School.

Iandoli is survived by her husband of 22 years, James S. Misenti; children Charles, Luke, and Maria; mother Elizabeth Iandoli; siblings Mary Iandoli (Todd Miner) and Charles F. Iandoli, Jr. (Sheila); several aunts and uncles; and many cousins. She was predeceased by her brother, Eddie Iandoli and father, Charles Iandoli.

1991 CAROLYN M. TRUJILLO, 45, of Paonia, Colorado, died on November 27, 2014.

Trujillo earned her B.A. in economics at Trinity, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and participated in crew. She went on to serve as a volunteer at The Abraham Connection Homeless Shelter in Colorado.

Trujillo is survived by her husband, Lance Trujillo; son Tristan Littlejohn; parents Richard and Pat Martohue; siblings Michael Martohue and Deborah Martohue; and four stepchildren.

2009 DEVIN A. NWANAGU, 28, died on December 14, 2014.

Nwanagu graduated from Trinity in 2009 with a B.S. in economics and a minor in philosophy. She was a four-year starter on the women's soccer team and was twice honored as an All-NESCAC midfielder who selflessly switched to defense in her senior season to fill a team need. In 2006, she was named NESCAC Rookie of the Year, and she later served as team captain. She was the team's leading scorer in both 2005 and 2006. Outside of soccer, Nwanagu was a member of the Honor Council. Her work experience included time as the capital campaign coordinator at Noble and Greenough School in Massachusetts.

Nwanagu is survived by her parents, Carol and Ernest Nwanagu; sibling E. Amadi Nwanagu, Jr.; grandparents Evelyn N. Young and Ernestine Nwanagu; and aunts and uncles Anne Young-Berkeley, Clinton I. Young, Jr., Mary L. and Eric Graves, Seth Nwanagu, David and Carolyn Nwanagu, and Jonathan and Johanna Nwanagu.

MASTER'S

M.A. 1955 JEANNE MARIE HUNCIKER of Bloomfield, Connecticut, died on January 19, 2015.

Hunciker received her bachelor's degree from Saint Joseph College and her master's degree in history from Trinity. She went on to earn her administrative certification from the University of Hartford. Hunciker started her career in education as a teacher at Bacon Academy and then worked as a teacher and later as district high school social studies chair for Hartford Public Schools. She was especially interested in promoting economic literacy in the schools, serving on the boards of multiple groups devoted to that focus, and received multiple honors for her work, including the Greater Hartford Council on Economic Education Merit Award. Hunciker also held many leadership roles with the Wintonbury Historical Society in Bloomfield. Following her retirement in 1985, she continued her community work with the Tunxis Garden Club of Farmington and the Women's Auxiliary of the Salvation Army.

M.A. 1957 GEORGE HAROLD MURRAY, 90, of Bloomfield, Connecticut, died on October 12, 2014.

After high school, Murray served in the U.S. Army and then attended Syracuse University, where he earned a B.S. in business administration and was a member of Sigma Nu. After working for Travelers Fire Insurance Company, Murray attended Trinity, earning an M.A. in political science while working for the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council. He then worked in development at Syracuse and at Washington and Jefferson College before joining the University of Connecticut Institute of Public Service as an associate professor, specializing in local government administration, planning, and historic preservation, among other areas. He retired after 26 years and was named a professor emeritus.

Murray is survived by daughters Susan Murray Smith and Alison Murray Smith, one granddaughter, three grandsons, and one great-grandson.

M.A. 1959 MARIANNE P. PAPANDREA, 79, of Meriden, Connecticut, died on October 16, 2014.

Papandrea received a B.A. in English from Saint Joseph College before coming to Trinity and earning an M.A. in the same subject. She spent her career teaching English, first in Hartford and then in Meriden. She retired in 2002 as chair of the Maloney High School English Department.

Papandrea is survived by her three children, Anne Marie (Michael), Mary-Rose (David), John, Jr. (Jennifer); and three grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband of 54 years, John F. Papandrea, and her brother, Richard J. Petrus.

M.S. 1969 LUCYLARCUM DAYTON DEEPPHOUSE, 82, of Madison, Connecticut, died on February 4, 2015.

Deephouse majored in English at Smith College, graduating Phi Beta Kappa in 1953. She earned her M.S. in mathematics from Trinity in 1969 and two years later joined the College in the Math Department, deciphering professors' notes and serving as a lecturer in mathematics and computer science. When Trinity established math proficiency as a degree requirement, Deephouse, as associate director of the Math Center, developed criteria to define proficiency and courses to assist students in meeting the requirement. She also made many presentations about Trinity's math program at national mathematics conferences. She retired from Trinity in 1999.

Deephouse is survived by her husband, James; children Chris Deephouse (Donna Hunt), Deborah (David Bleich), and David Deephouse (Melissa Hathaway); and four granddaughters.

M.A. 1976 MARY FISCHER CURTISS, 69, of Orange, Connecticut, died on January 11, 2015.

Curtiss earned her B.A. from St. John's University. She received her M.A. in English from Trinity in addition to earning a master's degree at Wesleyan University. Curtiss was an English teacher at Trumbull High School in Connecticut for 25 years and won many national and state awards for teaching, including an honor from the Milken Family Foundation. She was known for her popular classes on Shakespeare, American studies, Kurt Vonnegut, and more.

Curtiss is survived by her husband of 40 years, Clayton.

M.A. 1994 MICHAEL DAVID DOOMAN, 51, of Madison, Connecticut, died on November 29, 2014.

Dooman received a B.A. in classics and political science from Drew University. At Trinity, he earned an M.A. in history. Dooman had a distinguished career as an educator and school administrator; most noteworthy are his positions at Mooreland Hill School in Berlin, Connecticut, which he attended as a child. He originally served as a Latin, English, and history teacher, later taking on the roles of director of studies, dean of students, assistant headmaster, and eventually headmaster, a position he held from 2006 until his death. Dooman also was active in the community, including serving as a corporator of the Hospital of Central Connecticut and as a volunteer at the New Britain Museum of American Art.

Dooman is survived by his wife, Sheila Lavey; sons Colin and John; mother Betty Dooman; brother Nelson Dooman (Bella); aunt Joanne Dooman and uncle Clyden Dooman; a nephew; and many nieces and cousins.

NONGRADUATES

1946 GARDNER W. MOULTON, 88, of Lakeland, Florida, died on October 15, 2014.

Moulton served in the U.S. Navy and then worked in banking for 37 years, retiring from the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company.

Moulton is survived by his wife, Ruthanna; daughters Macy Moulton (Steven Gladczuk) and Carrie Moulton (Glenn Allen); two granddaughters; sister Judith Moulton Kerr; and nephew William Politz.

DEATH NOTICES

1946 BENCION M. MOSKOW

M.A. 1964 MICHAEL F. GORMLEY